

ULTRAFAST X-RAY SUMMER SEMINAR
JUNE 15-19 2014
SLAC NATIONAL ACCELERATOR LABORATORY

UXSS  2014

UXSS 2014 is hosted by the Stanford University's PULSE Institute at SLAC National Accelerator Laboratory. UXSS 2014 is organized in collaboration with the Center for Free-Electron Laser Science at DESY in Hamburg, Germany, and the Helmholtz Virtual Institute for Dynamic Pathways in Multidimensional Landscapes, Germany.

The goal of UXSS 2014 is to disseminate information and train students and post-docs on new opportunities in ultrafast science, particularly using X-ray Free Electron Lasers. Lectures will be presented by expert scientists in this exciting new field.

Teachers:

Alexander Föhlisch

Helmholtz Zentrum Berlin

Pieter Glatzel

ESRF Grenoble

Brian Kobilka

Stanford University

Michael Odelius

University of Stockholm

Claudio Pellegrini

UC Los Angeles

Nina Rohringer

CFEL Hamburg

Robin Santra

CFEL Hamburg

Oleg Shpyrko

UC San Diego

Philippe Wernet

Helmholtz Zentrum Berlin

<https://conf-slac.stanford.edu/uxss-2014>

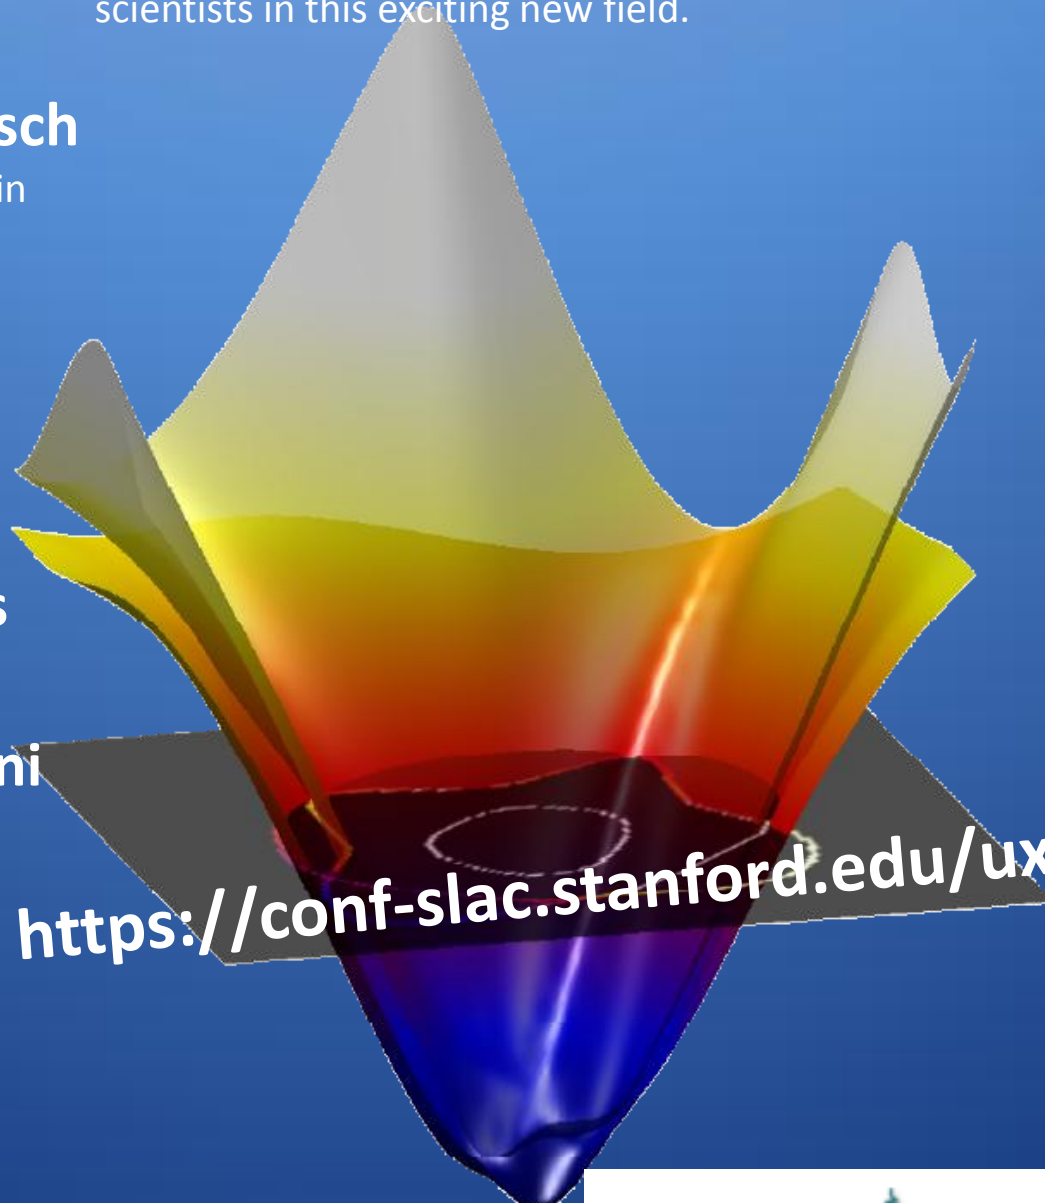

Image: Mariano Trigo (PULSE) Poster: Markus Guehr (PULSE)

PULSE  STANFORD

Dynamic Pathways in Multidimensional Landscapes

 CFEL
SCIENCE